Hi Steven

Thank you very much. Did you get anything back from Fairfax on the matters Tim Townsend raised relating to roundabout design, principally the validity of the original traffic count and speed measurements?

I see Fairfax has now recognised DMRB as a standard they should be working to but have used 50kph as the assumed speed not the 35mph their traffic consultant said was relevant. Anyone who has attended a speed awareness course knows there is a world of difference between 50kph (31 mph) and 35mph, reflected in DMRB charts.

I can't see why they wouldn't just go ahead and set up a new traffic count and speed survey. Maybe you could ask them to do that, at a distance from the existing roundabout agreed with County Highways. Then the roundabout could be designed and assessed against up to date valid data.

Kind regards

Yes, you are correct, we received revisions to the application on 15th April.

The changes to the scheme will be readvertised so that consultees and interested parties will be able to comment on the revised proposals. I will be asking our service support team to do this today, so I expect the neighbour notification letters will be sent out today or early next week.

Hi Steven

I see a lot of new information has been submitted by Fairfax so expect there to be proportionate time allocated to further public consultation.

Could you let me now when you are re-opening consultation until please? It would help if the automated system on your portal was reset to allow representations to be made directly to the portal.

Kind regards
