Your local planning authority will be able to advise on the content of any assessments that may be required.

Biodiversity net gain

Biodiversity net gain is a legal requirement for planning permission introduced on 12 February 2024. All applications are required to either provide detailed information proving there will be a biodiversity increase; or explain why the requirement does not apply to the development.

Do you believe that, if the development is granted permission, the general Biodiversity Gain Condition (as set out in Paragraph 13 of Schedule 7A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 \(as amended\)) would apply?

☐ Yes

☒ No

Biodiversity net gain has been introduced as a general condition for planning permission. As set out in The Environment Act 2021: "grants of planning permission in England [are] to be subject to a condition to secure that the biodiversity gain objective is met". Therefore, in England, all planning permissions are generally subject to biodiversity gain rules, unless they are specifically exempt or out of scope.

If you have stated that the biodiversity net gain requirement does not apply to your application you must provide the reason(s) why, and may also need to supply evidence (especially where you believe the application is eligible for the 'de minimis' exemption).

Please add all the reasons why biodiversity net gain does not apply and enter a justification for each one

Reason biodiversity net gain does not apply:

Retrospective planning permission

Please justify the reason why biodiversity net gain does not apply:

Ground mounted solar array has no effect on biodiversity in its location or its surrounding. Array is sat on timbers not even fixed to the ground.

Note: Please read the help text for further information why developments may be exempt or not in scope.

Assistance as quote -

Dear John

As discussed on the telephone yesterday afternoon, we cannot guarantee that your application will be granted, but invite you to lodge a retrospective planning application.

Should retrospective planning permission not sought and granted for the solar panels, then the breach of planning control will remain and the expediency of formal enforcement action to remedy any harm to amenity will be considered.

I look forward to your co-operation in this matter but should you wish to discuss the matter do please let me know.

The above represents the Council's informal view only and should you wish to challenge this and obtain a legal determination as to the lawfulness of your development it is open to you to make an application to this authority for a Certificate of Lawful Development under s.191 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990.

Kind regards,
Jessica

It is an important principle of decision-making that the process is open and transparent.

For the purposes of this question, "related to" means related, by birth or otherwise, closely enough that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was bias on the part of the decision-maker in the Local Planning Authority.
