Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I have lived in Haywards Heath for 36 years. In that time have seen this place change from a quiet market town to a sprawling succession of housing estates and empty office blocks. The fields and farmland that once surrounded the town have all but gone. Why would any right minded council agree to concreting over yet more green space? Ardingly Reservoir runs dry almost every summer. Where is the extra water going to come from? Which oversubscribed GP practice or Dentist will these people apply to?

Perhaps the Council should prioritise repairing our existing appalling roads instead of building more.
The Councillors were elected to support its citizens, not trample on their right to live in a green and pleasant land.

Kind regards
