Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I was pleased to see signs that the junk (including an old green plastic paddling pool) and random metal fencing was being removed so that a new wall/fence was going to be put up, but then was further saddened. The new fence is excessively high and the materials starkly do not fit in with the rest of the Crescent at all. It's strange as putting something inappropriate up is surely just more stress as objections have clearly been lodged, and a big expense. I would have ideally liked to have seen an appropriately high wall in keeping with the rest of the crescent and trees/shrubs to have created height and privacy. The aesthetic of the crescent for the residents and walkers is really important and used to be enjoyable.

Kind regards
