Reasons for comment:

Comments: With the installation of a significant number of heat pumps it would seem irresponsible not to also install solar so as to not put additional strain on the electricity grid. In addition it was part of the original planning and will become mandatory for new builds in the not to distant future.

I also wish to object to the reason given for the change of planning as many houses in the village have solar, particularly those on Hamsey Road and the properties nearest to the site have solar.

Kind regards
