Reasons for comment:

Comments: This development needs to be as environmentally efficient as possible. I believe that one of the planning requirements was that these houses must be built with solar panels. Living in Sharpthorne, we regularly have power outages. More houses means more pressure on an already stressed system. Any new homes built today should be built with a means of generating at least a high percentage of it's own power requirements. I also believe that this development should have it's own sewage processing system. Our current one overflow regularly into Coombe Brook and hence into Weir Wood reservoir. It was never designed for the number of houses that we now have. Add another 108 and it'll be an environmentally disaster.

Kind regards
