Reasons for comment:
Comments:	The village already has plenty of convenience stores and Tesco could replace Morrisons which is extremely poor. The new housing development desperately requires a convenience store. The village needs a central public house in the village with a suitable garden space for adults, families and children to enjoy. Removing the garden is like removing history.

Traffic within the village is already awful following the new housing development and having additional large delivery lorries trying to turn in to Copthorne Bank and deliver items will cause further gridlock and damage to the roads plus safety issues for everyone walking, cycling or driving around the village.

Kind regards
