Reasons for comment:
Comments:	We're a couple in our 30s living in Haywards Heath with our four-year-old. We have friends and family in Ansty so we spend a bit of time there and have always thought it seems like a really lovely village with a nice community feel. It's the sort of place we'd definitely think about moving to one day if the chance came up. From what we can see, these homes would sit next to the existing development rather than feeling separate, which seems like a sensible place for them. It's nice to see opportunities for a few more homes as it gives families like ours more options locally and helps keep villages welcoming to younger people as well. We're really supportive of the plans and think it would be great to see more opportunities for families in the area.

Kind regards
