Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I object to this application. The proposed mast would clearly be a huge, ugly, industrial monstrosity totally out of keeping with the local area. Nothing so very ugly should ever have to blight any residential area. One of the things that attracted me to living in Haywards Heath was the semi-rural nature of it, with lots of greenery and views towards the South Downs. Erecting such a large lattice mast is so completely out of keeping with this. Some people may want better mobile coverage, but absolutely nobody wants to live near (or even see) something so nasty in their environment. And based on the proposed height, a lot of people will see it every single day. The very least that the planning authority should do in support of its local residents, is to mandate a structure that is suited to the area and ideally being camouflaged (e.g. to look like a tree). We deserve so much better than this.

Kind regards
