One point to note is that the new structure has been deemed necessary in order to accommodate storage and office/warehouse storage. I note that there are currently two vacant units available for rent of substantial size on the same site as the proposed development:

Surely it would make sense to utilise these, rather than to build an additional structure for such reasons?

I would also like to strongly support the objections made by my neighbours at both North Danworth and South Danworth Cottages.

There appears to be little reason for such a structure when parts of the existing barn is not currently used. Further, it makes no sense to build such a structure within such close proximity of residential dwellings when the property benefits from enough space to place the structure away from people's homes.
