Reasons for comment:
Comments:	The 3/4 storey Victorian villas along this road all have small gardens with retaining wall. This is a conservation area. Although 2 nearby properties have no garden - they are 2 storey. We cannot keep destroying the look and feel of this area by removing plants and trees. Access to these properties by car is going to make the road less safe and it is already quite a difficult spot to negotiate both as a pedestrian and road user because the road becomes single file because of opposite parking. There are frequent occasions where the road is blocked due to the burial road and the amount of traffic to Ditchling. There will be many more holdups, drivers taking risks and danger to pedestrians if cars are entering and existing this property by using a front forecourt.

There is parking opposite and nearby.

Kind regards
