Reasons for comment:
Comments:	As a parent with children at a local school in Cuckfield, I think it's important that villages continue to welcome new families. Schools, clubs and local activities all rely on a steady number of younger families living nearby. Looking at the plans, the proposed homes seem to sit right alongside housing that already exists. That makes it feel like a sensible place for a small number of new houses rather than spreading development further out. A modest addition like this seems far more in keeping with a village than large scale projects.

Kind regards
