Reasons for comment:
Comments:	As a nearby resident in Hassocks I support these proposals. We were looking to buy on this estate, and I think the applicants use of proportionate design, together with sympathetic materials is in-keeping with MSDC policy and represents good design. This estate benefits from good quality housing stock, if a little tired and outdated, and it is encouraging to see a young family willing to take on a project to make the property befitting of modern living requirements together with embracing environmentally efficient construction and building services standards.

Kind regards
