Hi Anna,
Further to our conversation, I confirm that these updates and design narrative in response to planning comments should be considered a formal update to the change of condition application. I didn't realise my previous email was considered as a 'draft', and was under the impression that my email of 02 April was a formal submission (and the 21 day review period would start at that point). Any expediency on the review period in light of this would be appreciated.

Thanks,
Matt.

Thanks Anna,
Please find attached a document containing modifications and justification in response to the planning comments. Updated plans and elevations also attached.
Please let me know when you have time to set up a call to talk through these points.

Matt.
