Biodiversity net gain

Paragraph 13 of Schedule 7A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 sets out that every planning permission granted for the development of land in England shall be deemed to have been granted subject to the 'biodiversity gain condition' requiring development to achieve a net gain of 10% of biodiversity value.

This is subject to exemptions, an exemption applies in relation to planning permission for a development which is the subject of a householder application, within the meaning of article 2(1) of the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order (2015)*.

Applicants for planning permission are required to make a statement as to whether they believe the biodiversity gain condition will apply if permission is granted, please confirm:

☒ It is my belief that if permission is granted for the development to which this application relates the biodiversity gain condition would not apply

*A 'householder application' means an application for planning permission for development for an existing dwellinghouse, or development within the curtilage of such a dwellinghouse for any purpose incidental to the enjoyment of the dwellinghouse which is not an application for change of use or an application to change the number of dwellings in a building.

Hamish said that the proposed extension would be of a modest scale and it would be of a similar design to the existing extensions within the surrounding area. The proposal would be characterised by external materials that are contemporary in their appearance and are considered to be common within the built up area. His informal opinion was that the proposal would in-principle address the character and scale of the surrounding buildings and landscape.

He also said that taking into account the scale of the proposal it would not have an impact on outlook, daylight and sunlight, and air and light pollution. In terms of impact on privacy and noise pollution the proposal would be located within the curtilage of the existing dwelling and it would not have direct views into neighbouring properties private amenity space. As such it is his informal opinion that the development would not cause significant harm to neighbouring amenities.

On parking, Hamish said that given the conversion would result in the loss of two spaces he would recommend demonstrating that some two off-street parking spaces are available within the site. He believed this could be achieved within the existing driveway. Provided this is the case it is his informal opinion that the proposal would comply with Policy DP21 of the MSDP and the WSPG.

Taking into account all of the above it is his informal opinion that formal planning permission could be granted for the proposal.

Authority Employee/Member

With respect to the Authority, is the applicant and/or agent one of the following:

- (a) a member of staff
- (b) an elected member
- (c) related to a member of staff
- (d) related to an elected member

It is an important principle of decision-making that the process is open and transparent.

For the purposes of this question, "related to" means related, by birth or otherwise, closely enough that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was bias on the part of the decision-maker in the Local Planning Authority.

Do any of the above statements apply?
