Joe,

As just discussed, the tenure of the housing is not a consideration, and they should be provided with onplot cycle storage.

A balance of Sheffield stands (should be the majority) and racks is acceptable. As this is a DOC application then these should be shown in plans.

Afternoon Stephen,

I have spoken to the application following your comments and they have provided the following response:

'The cycle storage area for plots 213-222 is below a FOG. Plots 213-222 are affordable units and it was felt a good solution to providing safe long-term cycle storage as not all RPs want to provide sheds etc in the gardens.

The bicycle storage will either be stacking racks or Sheffield stands.'

Is this sufficient to address your concerns?

Many thanks

Joe

Jospeh,
Comments below.
Stephen

No details of the provision for the houses east of the EBLR has been provided (No. 206-222)
206 – Garage
207-212 – Sheds in rear garden now shown –

213-222 – Why do the houses not have their own cycle storage? Cycle parking should be convenient to use and having it off plot would discourage use. From the plan provide they all have appropriate access to the garden for storage.

Apartments

No details of the what the securing provision within the apartments has been provided.
What is needed is detail on how bikes could be secured – e.g Sheffield stands within the store.
