Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I live across from the proposed development. I am supportive of any agricultural development. I object to this development as I do not believe it to be in good faith. Rather I see it as part of a strategy to incrementally place facts on the ground so that eventual planning permission for a residential property is obtained. If this occurred I expect the other parcels of land to the south would follow suit. There is already a very large barn built - for unclear purpose. A large van seems to be parked permanently here. I see the building of this quite large stable as part of this overall strategy to ultimately obtain planning permission for a residential property.

The field is not large enough to support four horses.

Kind regards
