Reasons for comment:

Comments: This application would seem to be identical to application DM/22/3875 in which the subject structure is referred to as a "Domestic Garden Room". Without modification this is now referred to as an outbuilding for "agricultural storage". In its present form the structure is patently unsuitable for this purpose (glazing and a single door) through which agricultural equipment larger than a domestic lawnmower would be unable to pass. In addition there has been no sign of any agricultural activity having ever taken place on the property.

This application would seem to be just verbiage to try to retain the structure by simply renaming it.

Kind regards
