Reasons for comment:

Comments: I completely support this planning application, the building was in dire condition when the applicant bought the property. One can see they have invested a huge financial sum in renovating the building and have spared no cost in order to ensure it has been done to a very high specification. As part of my job we see hundreds of properties and i can see the attention to detail and effort to retain much of its original character is flawless. The specification the current owners have used in their restoration, is of the highest order and they have clearly made every effort to keep and retain the character of this listed building. The work to the rear of the property, is a continuation of that thought, and i can only say has enhanced the overall property. In summary i wholeheartedly support this application and can only applaud the current owners dedication to retain as much of the original character of the building as they possibly could, i would even go as far as to say we should be using this as a benchmark for future restorations.

Kind regards
