Comments Details

Comments:	The application site is agricultural land with no records of former industrial or commercial uses. No potentially contaminative historical activities have been identified, and the site will remain in agricultural use.
	On the basis of the information available, there is no evidence to suggest the site is affected by land contamination that would pose a risk to human health, livestock, controlled waters, or the wider environment.
	The suitability of stored water for livestock consumption falls outside the scope of contaminated land considerations.
	No objection is raised on contaminated land grounds.

Kind regards
