Dear Planning Officer,

My husband [REDACTED] are seeking permission to live on site with my parents at the proposed development. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Living on site would allow this vital intergenerational support to continue in a practical and sustainable way. I work locally in Cuckfield and my husband, [REDACTED], is a partner in a small building firm whose projects are primarily based in the surrounding villages. Our livelihoods are therefore closely connected to the local community and economy, and remaining nearby enables us to continue contributing to both in a meaningful and sustainable way.

I [REDACTED] grew up at Old Mill House and lived there for the first 26 years of my life. The property and surrounding land have always been central to our family life, providing an environment where we cared for animals (such as pigs, sheep and many horses) and enjoyed the outdoors together. We hope to give our own children a similar upbringing — one that connects them to nature, family, and the traditions of the home I was raised in.

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] When we previously lived in the next village, we commuted to the property every day for childcare and support purposes, which was both time-consuming and unsustainable. Living on site would reduce unnecessary travel and ensure our family life functions more efficiently and responsibly.

[REDACTED]
Our family has lived at Old Mill House for over 32 years. Allowing us to continue living and working together on site will [REDACTED] while enabling us to raise the next generation in a supportive and sustainable family setting. We believe this proposal represents a responsible and compassionate approach to rural family living, promoting continuity, community, and long-term care within our family home.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED]
