Reasons for comment:
Comments:	"Demolition of Existing Building" sounds innocuous enough but the reality is the demolition of a very large house that was granted planning permission in October 2001. According to Zoopla it comprises 4 reception rooms, 6 bedrooms, 5 bathrooms and totals 407 m2. It sold for £1,250,000 in 2006 and now has a potential market value of up to £2,900,000. In my view It would be an act of planning and environmental vandalism to demolish a very valuable house less than 25 years since its construction.

Kind regards
