Reasons for comment:

Comments:	I'm the neighbour directly next door at number 36. The plans involve an infill which will turn an exterior garage wall into an interior wall between my study/reception area and no.38's proposed kitchen dining room. The only concern I have is noise travelling between the two rooms. This is an original thin external garage wall. The walls in these properties are already thin even moderate low noise can be heard between the properties and therefore I would like building control to consider insisting on enhanced or extra noise insulation upon construction of the infill.

This would benefit both properties from noise travelling between the two rooms and the two properties.

Kind regards
