| Comments:            | I think it's appalling that it is being considered to build 42 new homes off of West Hoathly Road. Within the town it is already becoming impossible to get Dr's appointments, Dentist appointments, opticians etc, the town doesn't have enough resource already, without adding 100's more residents. Policies DP12 and DP15 hand in hand go against developing in the countryside. East Grinstead is a countryside town and should stay that way, we shouldn't be building more and more when the town | can't cope as it is. Roads are becoming busier and busier already, we don't need potentially 100's more cars in the surrounding area. South East water are constantly struggling with usage, how is 42 new homes going to help that? School waiting lists are getting longer and longer, how are 42 new homes for families going to help? It won't, it will cause more issues. Will we then need to build further out to build more schools, doctors, dentists, shops? The town does NOT need to grow. Think of the residents who live here to be surrounded by countryside and greenery, we do not want to live on a housing estate.
