

From: simon.dougall@btinternet.com <simon.dougall@btinternet.com>
Sent: 14 February 2026 09:51:12 UTC+01:00
To: "simon.dougall@btinternet.com" <simon.dougall@btinternet.com>
Subject: FW: Victorian Window Marlow House
Attachments: IMG_4135 (002).jpg

I think the original window here would have been a vertical sliding sash. The glazing bar casement with pointed arched lights is not typical of the 1830s. However, from what I have seen I would tend to agree that it is not a historic window and is more likely to date from the 1940s or 50s. I would be more convinced of historic provenance if the gothic glazing bars intersected at the top or had open / glazed spandrels as in the image below the photograph. The 'plate' detailing of the lights strikes me as somewhat faux.

Kind regards

Chris Griffiths LLB(Hons) MA IHBC

Joint Head of Heritage 2025-2026

07808 027 635

0330 107 2944

chris@hcukgroup.co.uk

ARCHAEOLOGY | ECOLOGY | HERITAGE | LANDSCAPE | PLANNING | VISUALISATIONS

To read our email disclaimer, please click here.

We make reasonable endeavours to give good advice on the basis of the information available to us. It is your responsibility to perform due diligence, and we accept no responsibility for the consequences of commercial decisions you may make. We are committed to a safe and respectful working environment and maintain a zero-tolerance approach to any form of abuse or harassment.