Reasons for comment:
Comments:	As mentioned previously, how can this area cope with more people and cars. I have not been able to view the actual plans but I see that flats are also included; does this mean that where they have reduced the housing numbers by a mere 2 units that the amount of units they will actually sell will still be the same just going upwards (apartment block) as opposed to being side by side? And again, where are all these cars going when most family homes now have 2-3 cars! How will the local GPs cope with so many more people when it is incredibly difficult to get a simple appointment.

Kind regards
