Reasons for comment:
Comments:	This is a disgusting proposal. Cuckfield will lose its identity as a village if this is built. There is an abundance of incredible natural biodiversity in this area from the rabbits, foxes and badgers evident from the immense number of warren holes. The land offers opportunities for blackberries to thrive providing shelter and sustenance to the creatures therein. There are old trees that cannot be replaced. Natural waterways would be distrusted and so would drainage. That's not to mention the lack of local amenities for this increase in population, sound pollution and infrastructure.

This should never be considered.

I'm sick of developers creating grand properties for Londoners to buy up. This doesn't help housing issues, it exacerbates issues. Tell the developers to go develop some of the empty office blocks in Haywards Heath for the locals who actually need a first home and not an additional one!!

Kind regards
