Reasons for comment:
Comments:	I don't think the requirement for walking access can safely be met without improvements to the access lane. At peak times the lane can be very busy already and often has coaches and delivery lorries going to the hotel. Walking to this site won't be easy, especially in the winter. There is poor lighting and no pavements just a grass verge. The lane regularly floods, often making it impassible on foot and occasionally too deep for cars. Without improvements to the lane of a footpath and better drainage, it will prevent walking to the site regularly during the winter and during/after any heavy rain. Also pulling out of the lane on to the turners hill road can be difficult at rush hour due to the volume and speed of approaching traffic, with the bends in the road making visibility low in the turners hill direction. With additional vehicle demand the limit on the turners hill road at this point should be reviewed

Kind regards
